CONFERENCE TOPIC:

This international conference focuses on the analysis of Alternative Dispute Resolution for Settlement of conflicts arising from the Belt and Road Initiative (BRI).

The BRI represents an impressive initiative launched by the People's Republic of China aimed at promoting trade relationships and international cooperation between many different countries.

The international development of economic and cultural relations will promote growth, but it will also lead to numerous conflicts that will have to be handled appropriately.

In this sense, a fundamental role will be played by the extra-judicial mechanisms for conflict resolution, on which the conference intends to start a first reflection promoted by the University of Cagliari and by the Mediterranean Mediators Association.
