Aims and object of the conference

Our civil law course, for many years already, open with an international conference in which we animate a discussion between professors and university students on topics of general interest and actuality. The serious Covid-19 crisis requires us to adapt the organizational modalities and the topics of discussion: the next international conference will take place online on the Zoom platform, on September 28, 29 and 30, 2020 and we will deal with Pandemic and general principles of reform: towards a new "Co(vi)d-Civil?

The teaching commitment of the academic staff should open with the discussion of the legal issues raised by the pandemic experience and encourage students to become aware of the fundamental role and social responsibility that jurists assume for the protection of rights in crisis situations in which they live. On the educational, formative and cultural level, first of all, our academic community focuses on the renewed social function of civilists for the protection of the fundamental rights of communities and their members.

As for the contents of the international long-distance conference activity, we have decided to alternate several Italian, Spanish and Latin American lecturers who speak about the pandemic and the general principles of civil law, in different sectors, with a view to reforming the current codifications.

More precisely, we have provided three modules, each covering three private sectors:

- I. Contract, bond and consumer law;
- II. The rights of the person, family and inheritance;
- III. Rights in rem, civil liability and health care liability.
